Borough Officers Robert Davis and Colin Mckenzie

Robert Davis

I have an academic background, followed by many years' experience as a cycling officer. My PhD research on myths and reality in road safety informs all my work on cycling.

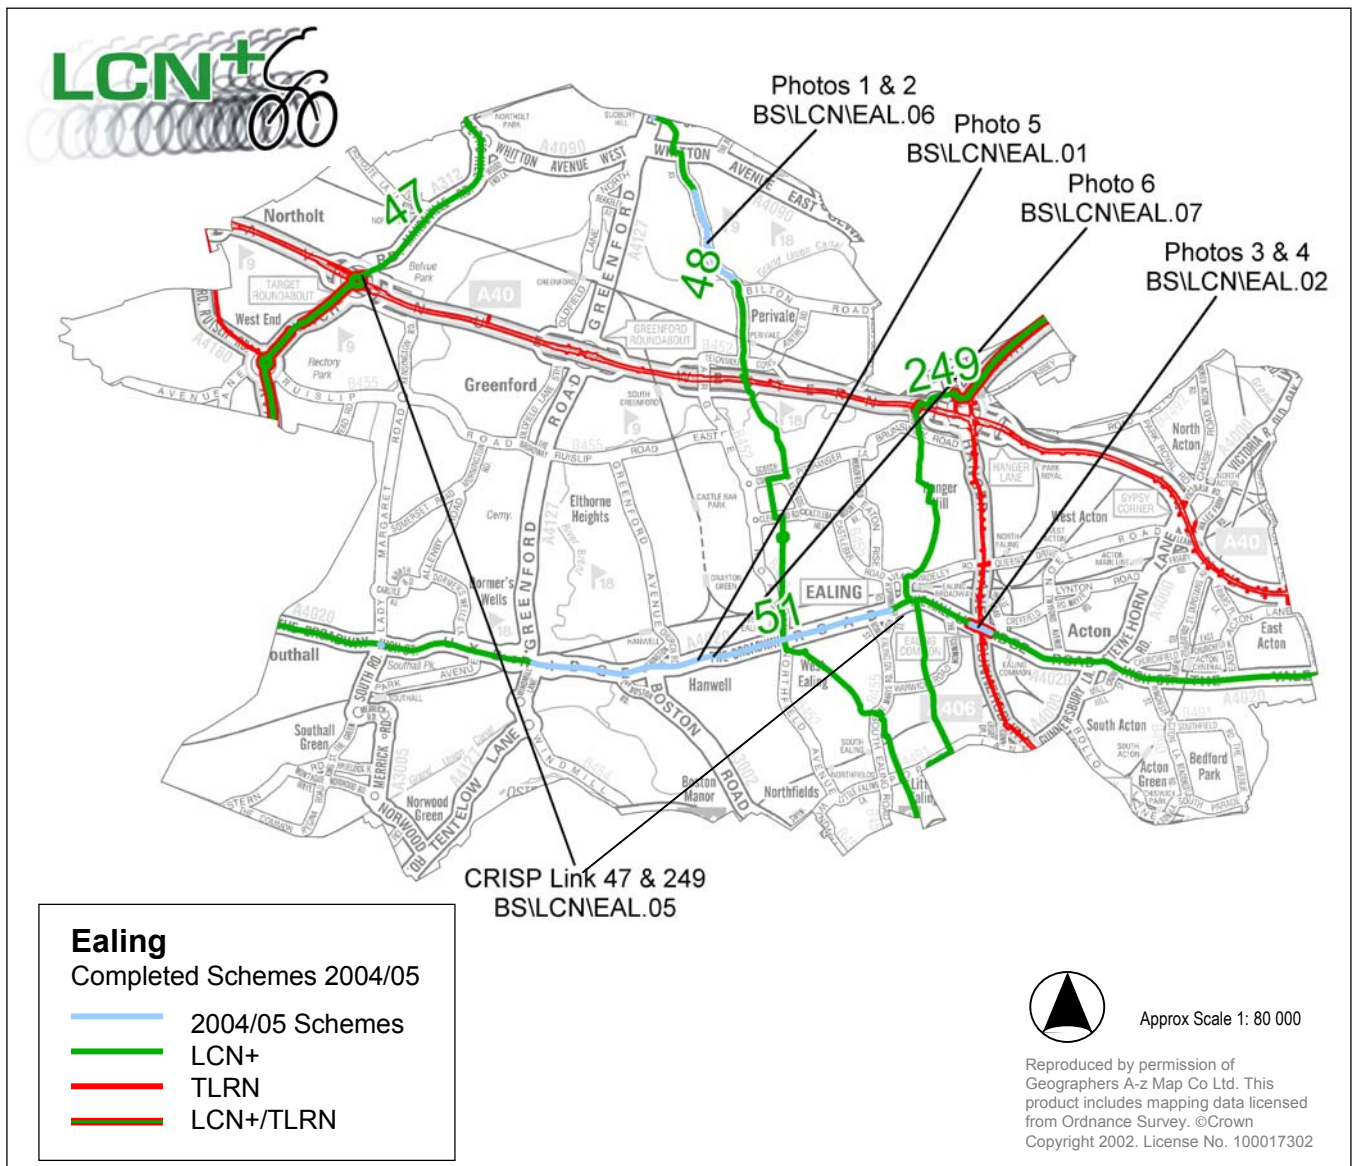

Cycling has quite a positive image in the borough as a whole, dropping off a little towards the west. There is plenty of interest in our cycle training programme, both from schools and individuals, and the local LCC group is growing.

Our non-infrastructure programmes have been very successful, limited only by the available funding. The main barriers to infrastructure work have been local political opposition to some schemes, and overcoming conventional wisdom on some of our more unusual proposals.

CRISP studies are complete on two of our four LCN+ links, and in progress on a third. The last, Uxbridge Road, will happen when we know if the tram is to go ahead or not. At present by far the most work has been done on Uxbridge Road, but some will need upgrading and we are only now starting to sort out the most difficult junctions. Network completion 40%.

Colin Mckenzie

My work background is in IT, but I have always cycled for transport, and I moved into transport planning via cycle campaigning in 2003.
